CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE

"A Quick Sale has been built on an open, honest and ethical approach. Each director and franchisee is very proud of these values and they all work hard to ensure that each and every customer gets the best advice and solution according to their individual situation."

Richard Watters, Managing Director, A Quick Sale

CASE STUDY: Lynne Benson-Brown
Glenn Ackroyd, A Quick Sale Director, became Lynne Benson-Brown's landlord – and her lifesaver at the same time.

Lynne bought her home five years ago with her then husband and liked living there.

But when the relationship broke down, he moved out and Lynne was left struggling to pay the mortgage. She had a new partner, Martyn Brown, whom she is now married to, and a baby on the way so a re-mortgage was out of the question.

When a leaflet about A Quick Sale popped through her letterbox, just after her son Robson was born, she decided to find out more.

Glenn went to see her and explained how he could help. He said: "Because she had just had the baby she was not working and repossession loomed, we agreed a price. To assist her, on top of buying the house, I increased the purchase price because the mortgage arrears were quite high, paid her legal fees, gave her a cash sum towards pressing debts and allowed her the first year rent free. This was to enable her to get back on her feet financially."

As her landlord, he then had the living room gas fire checked. "It revealed a potentially lethal carbon monoxide leak." Glenn said. "She told the plumber that she had been experiencing headaches in the past with it on. The fire had been fitted very badly but was immediately resolved by the plumber at my expense."

"This arrangement means Lynne can stay in the home she knows and loves. Often you don't know what a tenant is going to be like, whereas Lynne loves this house, keeps it nice and is not going to treat it with contempt."

Lynne said: "I tried to re-mortgage but it would have meant paying more than £400 per month. Under this arrangement the rent will be £350, I am paying less in outgoings and Glenn is responsible for all the maintenance."

Testimonial

A Quick Sale provided us with the opportunity to realise our hopes for the speedy disposal of our home, allowing us to pursue a complete change in our lifestyle and careers. There was no need to have strangers viewing the property, no constant hassle from estate agents, no chain to fall apart at the last minute. The friendly and professional manner in which the negotiations were conducted was first class. We were kept informed at every stage of the process. We would recommend A Quick Sale to anyone in similar circumstances looking for a quick turnaround of their assets.

Mr & Mrs R Hurley, Chessington

I was on the very edge of losing my home until I contacted you. You have shown nothing but kindness and consideration ever since. This morning I woke from our first decent night's sleep because yesterday you completed our sale and my burden has been lifted. Thank you most sincerely on behalf of my son Phillip and I. We look forward to a good landlord/tenant relationship.

Mr D Mitchell, Surbiton

My heartfelt thanks for the way you dealt with the quick sale of our property. I was surprised to find A Quick Sale offering a solution without any demands for upfront payments. To anyone seeking a quick sale and not realistically expecting 100% of the value, A Quick Sale Ltd will fit the bill nicely.

Mr GW, Kingston

Alien invasion or roundabout?

Ball of fun: One of the students' designs for the roundabout

Kingston College and University students have come up with some bizzare and brilliant designs for College Roundabout in Kingston, one of which could be made into a reality.

They have been working as part of ambitious plans to turn the roundabout into a work of art.

More than 250 students from Kingston College and Kingston University have worked with the council's public art panel to produce possible designs for the roundabout.

Some of the more interesting include blocks spelling out the letters of Kingston and live beamed images of the town centre.

The public will be able to size up the entrants and have their say before a shortlist of 15, including a people's choice design, is chosen.

The exhibition is in Market House on Monday, February 11, from noon to 5pm and Tuesday, February 12, from 9am to 5pm.

MRSA 'BLOOD FIDDLE' DENIED

Hospital rejects claims that it has massaged figures

Kingston Hospital has quickly denied claims that it cut the number of blood tests administered to reduce instances of MRSA, after accusations from the BBC.

A source leaked an internal memo to the BBC news website which reportedly told staff to question the need for blood samples to be taken.

The source alleged that Kingston Hospital was "massaging" its MRSA rates by trying to encourage a decrease in blood tests which would result in fewer cases turning up.

Kingston Hospital said the reason for the memo was to reduce the number of tests in relation to other comparable hospitals. In a statement, the hospital denied it was reducing the number of blood tests to cut MRSA rates and reiterated that it carried out 150 tests a week, more than other hospitals of a similar size.

Helen Dirilen, director of nursing and quality for Kingston Hospital NHS Trust, said: "As part of good practice, a memo was sent to all clinical staff last week to remind them of the correct procedures and indications for the collection of blood culture samples from patients.

"The aim is to ensure patient safety and to try to prevent contamination of blood culture samples."

The memo allegedly cited recent MRSA cases detected at the hospital and the negative effect these had on staff and the hospital's Foundation Trust application.

The memo then stated that staff should question a number of "factors" before taking a blood test.

These included the competence of individuals and whether the test would help achieve a "positive clinical outcome" for some patients.

The hospital has recently reported a 36 per cent drop in their MRSA infection rates, but still missed its Foundation Trust application target by one case, meaning the application was deferred.

It comes as Kingston Primary Care Trust (PCT) revealed at its public board meeting on Monday, February 4, that staff were not routinely screened for MRSA.

Legislation means selected patients will be screened for MRSA from this April but there was no provision for staff.

The once-familiar sight of cows grazing in Richmond Park is back, albeit in small numbers, as part of an environmental experiment.

The British white cross cows are part of a grazing trial to improve acid grassland flowers at the park.

The mother and her calf will be housed in a four hectare (10-acre) enclosure in Sawyer's Hill during the trial, a partnership between the Royal Parks, Natural England and Hounslow Urban Farm.

Park manager Simon Richards said: "This project is an excellent example of how the Royal Parks are working with partners in the local area to improve the management of the park, both for visitors and for the wildlife for which the park is internationally famous."

"Since the cows arrived last week they have already been a subject of much positive comment from our visitors."

Nigel Reeve, community ecologist for the Royal Parks, said: "Cattle were a familiar part of Richmond Park's community of grazing animals right up until the mid-20th century."

"Working with our partners, this exciting study will help us to learn more about how better to conserve and enhance the special community of plant and animal wildlife that makes up the park's acid grassland."

Records show that cattle used to roam Richmond Park in large numbers. There were 114 in 1914 and 50 recorded in 1943.

The effect the cows have on the park will be reviewed annually until 2013 and the number of cattle will be adjusted according to how the flora responds.

Post office's return not an open and shut case

Residents are still scratching their heads over the possibility of a post office returning to Tolworth Broadway, after a mix-up in letters sent to the Kingston Pensioners' Forum.

Douglas Reynolds, chairman of the forum, received a letter from a customer service adviser from the Post Office on January 9 stating the Broadway office was permanently closed.

But then he received a second letter from a different customer service adviser on January 24, apologising for the closure and stating the Post Office could not confirm the branch would reopen.

A Post Office spokeswoman said: "We continue to work on this but would like to hear from anyone with suitable premises."

"They can call our agency recruitment line on 0845 6016260."

Cabbie guilty of sex attack

A licensed minicab driver has been found guilty of sexually assaulting a Kingston teenager in his cab.

Naeem Ahmed, 41, of Lynmouth Road, who drove for Wimbleton Car Services, assaulted the girl, who cannot be named for legal reasons, on May 18 last year, after she had been out with friends in Wimbledon.

He was found guilty of assault by penetration at Kingston Crown Court on February 1.

Prosecutor Simon Shannon said: "While the victim texted her mother to let her know she was on her way home, her two friends made conversation with the defendant. He [Ahmed] told them he liked hairy girls, not a conversation to everyone's

by ALITA HOWE

ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

taste but they all played along."

When the victim's male friend got out at Raynes Park, the two girls were left alone in Ahmed's car.

Mr Shannon said Ahmed told the girls how much he enjoyed watching pornographic films and, after the victim's friend got out of the cab in Kingston, she was left alone with him.

The court heard how Ahmed suggested she move into the front passenger seat to give him clearer directions and she agreed.

Ahmed asked his victim if she had any tips about how to sexually satisfy his partner, before driving past her house in Kingston to the end of the street.

Ahmed then forced the girl to perform a sex act on him and sexually assaulted her. The victim managed to struggle free, unlock the door and run home. Her mother called police.

Ahmed will be sentenced on February 22.

Refurbishment cost rise

An extra £1million has been allocated for refurbishing the Esher wing at Kingston Hospital. The original budget set out for the refurbishment was £550,000 but the latest budget showed the figure at £1.62million. Kingston Hospital said it was refurbishing two wards instead of just the one, and so extra money was needed.

Bill plans to ‘ban the bag’

Lethal litter: Discarded plastic bags, such as these in the Thames at Kingston, threaten wildlife

Deadlinepix KT19221

Plastic bags could be a rare sight in Kingston after the council decided to back proposals that could impose a total ban.

The London Local Authorities (Shopping Bags) Bill gives local authorities the power to ban shops from handing out bags and fine those that continue to do so.

At a full meeting on Tuesday, January 29, Kingston Council voted to be included in the bill.

Council leader Councillor Derek Osbourne said: "Plastic bags are one of the biggest contributors to landfill and we use billions of them, most of which are thrown away.

by PETER TRUMAN
and KERRY GROVE

ptruman@london.newsquest.co.uk

"We just have to weigh up the commercial interests of the retailers and the environmental factors. "Local authorities don't have the powers to tax them. That would have been our preference."

He urged shops to raise the plastic bag tax as an option if they were unhappy at the proposals to ban bags.

The bill has proved controversial, with both the Association of Convenience Stores and the British Retail Consortium lobbying the Government and labelling the scheme as "excessive" with "no environmental impact".

A spokeswoman for Kingston Chamber of Commerce welcomed the move to reduce plastic bags, but was worried about the financial implications a tax might have.

She said: "The huge number of bags that are used once and then find themselves in a landfill or, worse, poisoning or suffocating wildlife, is outrageous."

Experts meet to tackle gun crime

A panel of experts discussed tackling gun crime in London at the annual C-Scaipe lecture last month.

The event, chaired by BBC Radio 4's James Naughtie, was held at Kingston University on January 23, and included experts including a man whose son was shot and killed in Brixton three years ago.

The event was rescheduled from October 31 last year, as a mark of respect for Kingston University student Phillip Poru, who was shot and killed on October 14.

While recent crime statistics showed Kingston only had 10 gun-related crimes last year, the panel discussed the increasing popularity of gated communities, the role of public space, use of metal detectors in schools, educating youngsters about the dangers of carrying weapons and whether the built environment impacted on crime.

Town centre manager Graham McNally told the debate that Kingston's "fantastic reduction" in gun crime was due to partnership work within the borough.

Decima Francis, founder of the Boyhood to Manhood charity, said education was the key to curbing gun crime. "We have to get a sense of community back," she said. "We need a holistic education so young people are aware of the damage they are doing to society."

Public policing meeting

Kingston's borough commander Laura Nicholson will host a public meeting on February 7, when she will discuss Kingston's policing plan for 2008/9 and its asset management plan.

The meeting will be held at Kingston College at 6.30pm.

Details of the asset management plan are available in advance at cms.met.police.uk/met/boroughs/kingston_upon_thames/index

Approval for aquarium

Chessington World of Adventures has been given approval to continue with plans for a sea life centre, due to open in March.

The new aquarium needed planning permission for an additional quarantine building and plant, but the potential pit-fall was overcome when permission was granted at the south of the borough neighbourhood committee meeting on Wednesday, January 30.

Premium-rate call addict stole £8k

by MATT WATTS

mwatts@london.newsquest.co.uk

A Surbiton payroll supervisor with an addiction to premium rate phone lines stole more than £8,000 to cover his debts, Kingston Crown Court heard last week.

In April 2005, Justin Knight, 34, paid the money into his bank account using the names of three current or ex-employees to attempt to cover the payments.

He was fired from temping agency Kelly Services in July 2005, after which a new payroll supervisor noticed discrepancies in the payments, supposedly for three different people, which all went to the same account.

Prosecutor David Baird described the fraud as "unsophisticated" but said if Knight had not been fired he probably would not have been caught.

Kate Wilkinson, defending, said that in 2005 while depressed and suffering from alcohol-related problems, Knight had racked up large credit card debts. She said he still owed £12,000 to credit card companies.

Mr Knight, who now works as a financial analyst for Cisco Systems, pleaded guilty to three counts of false accounting involving a breach of trust. He was sentenced to 50 weeks in prison for each of the three counts, to run concurrently, and suspended for two years, and ordered to do 120 hours of unpaid community work.

An unhealthy deficit

by PETER TRUMAN

ptruman@london.newsquest.co.uk

“We’re not out of the woods yet,” was the message from chief executive David Smith at Kingston Primary Care Trust’s (PCT) public board meeting about its cash deficit. The PCT reported a surplus of £4.9million to date but reiterated that this would only serve to wipe off some of the £11million cash limit deficit and the £22million revenue resource deficit. The board revealed at the meeting on Monday, February 4, it was failing on 19 per cent of its targets, particularly access to a primary care professional within 24 hours and improving the life outcomes of adults and children with mental health problems. The performance report also showed the problems with retinopathy screening for diabetics but the PCT was confident this would be achieved by the end of the financial year. Other failing targets included to increase participation of problem drug users in treatment programmes by 100 per cent, reducing adult smoking rates to 21 per cent, meeting the 18-week target for GP referrals and secure improvements in NHS patient experience. But Mr Smith highlighted how certain targets were more important than others, especially MRSA, and that others were coming down.

But Penny Taylor, director of performance, admitted it would take substantial funding to bring all the underachieving targets up to the achieving bracket. Giving his quarterly report, Mr Smith highlighted the work done on the Healthcare for London and the Springboard public consultations currently taking place. He also reported that the PCT had reviewed its data security following the hospital data scandal at Kingston Hospital. He said that the PCT was compliant with the Strategic Health Authority in December and further work was being undertaken to “ensure vigilance in this area and that systems, policies and practice are robust”.

Extra special games prove a smash hit

A sports taster day for people with learning disabilities held in New Malden at the end of January has proved so successful that weekly football and boccia sessions have been set up to cope with demand.

More than 60 people took part in a host of activities at Richard Challoner School on January 26, organised by Special Olympics Surrey, and fortnightly sessions have now been arranged at the hall due to the event's popularity.

Branch secretary Sue Frett said: "It was fantastic, the most incredible thing was to see people coming in holding on to their parents and the next thing you know the men and women are running around having the most wonderful time."

"We have got a Special Olympic football trainer for the fortnightly sessions and there's going to be junior, senior and adult football teams for men and women and boccia is going to feature as well."

The sessions have been made possible through a grant from the London Development Agency, although Mrs Frett added that once funding runs out in March the club was on its own.

She said: "That will be no problem though. It's quite remarkable how Special Olympics have taken off. I think it's been long overdue because there's not been a branch here in Surrey until last September, but by crikey are we making our presence known now."

Anyone interested in the football and boccia evenings, call Mrs Frett on 020 8336 2768.

Rottweiler JD has got the competition totally licked

by PETER TRUMAN

ptruman@london.newsquest.co.uk

Overcoming prejudice is why this week's Kingston's Best Dog nomination should win, according to her owner.

Shelley Knowles' dog JD is a rottweiler and as such people tend to make assumptions about her when they see her.

But while rottweilers are getting a bad press with the recent spate of maulings by dogs, JD is a complete contrast to the angry, intimidating dog some might expect from her breed.

Shelley, who lives in Hook Rise, Chessington, said: "She's a fun-loving dog and everyone she meets, if they give her the time of day, realises she's a big big softy."

You could not even say her bark was worse than her bite as she barks so little according to Shelley.

She said: "The only noise she makes is when I leave the house and she whines a bit – but she doesn't bark at all."

The 16-month-old pooch has been in Shelley's life since she was seven months, after Shelley chose her out of a litter her brother had.

She said: "She came up to me and licked my hand and I fell in love with her straight away. She loves to lick – she really ought to have a licking licence."

Shelley described JD as energetic and very playful, and is a bit of a pussy cat in more ways than one. She said: "One of her favourite meals is tuna, which is a bit odd for a dog."

JD also loves playing tug of war or football and is often seen at Shelley's local park harassing footballers during their training sessions.

Speaking about what JD means to her, Shelley added: "She's completely changed my life."

"My family live far away but that gap is filled by JD and I feel so proud of her and the love she gives everyone."

"How I Transformed My Kitchen Without Having to Buy a New One"

"I would recommend Dream Doors every time"

"My kitchen was over 10 years old and looked tatty. I desperately needed a new kitchen but didn't want the cost or upheaval. I had heard good reports of Dream Doors, who specialise in kitchen facelifts, so I decided to give them a try. What an amazing transformation!

As well as fitting brand new doors and worktops, everything was colour co-ordinated and I even gained additional cupboard space. My kitchen has been transformed in just over a day and I saved 60% of the cost of a new one!

I was under no obligation from the initial visit, and the advice and estimate I received were free of charge. There was no mess, no fuss, just plenty of friendly, helpful advice and I didn't need to pay the balance until I was completely satisfied!

Green fingered: Steve Frise enjoying his career change

Business is growing after career change

by ALITA HOWE

ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

A Hersham man has swapped the hectic world of car sales for the more sedate climes of garden design by buying into a successful national franchise.

Steve Frise, 39, decided 20 years working in the motor trade was enough and embarked on an ambitious career change as he approached 40.

Mr Frise has invested his savings in starting a franchise of Ed's Garden Maintenance and aims to develop the business, which will offer one-off and regular gardening services, across Walton and Weybridge.

He said: "There is always a risk when starting your own business, as many businesses fail in the first year.

"As a naturally cautious person, starting and growing my own successful business is a huge leap."

Mr Frise said he was confident of success with the support of Ed's, which provides help with accountancy, marketing, business management, training and provision of tools and equipment.

Mr Frise worked his way up from a van driver to managing a team of eight people at Tony Allan Motors in New Malden, and said he drew inspiration from his brother who also had a successful mail box franchise.

He said: "I searched for different franchise options on the internet and, as I have a real love of the great outdoors, I believed that gardening would be something that I would be good at and would succeed in.

"My wife has said to me on more than one occasion that if I enjoyed being indoors only half as much, the decorating may one day get finished."

Mr Frise said he would focus on customer service and high standards to retain customers and ensure future growth.

He said: "It is imperative that the foundations of the business are laid and that my customers experience reliability, efficiency and remain happy with the service they get from me.

"At that point, I will consider expanding the workforce to develop a customer base further afield."

Join record entries for business awards

by ALITA HOWE

ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

There are only two weeks left to get your entries in for the South London Business Awards.

There have been a record number of entries for this year's awards and companies are being urged to submit theirs in time for the February 22 deadline, to be in with a chance of winning one of the prestigious trophies.

All shortlisted finalists will receive two free tickets to the awards dinner, which will be held at Crystal Palace Football Club on May 19.

Nine trophies are up for grabs, including innovation in business, entrepreneur of the year and the much-coveted south London company of the year.

One of the first entrants was Streatham-based Yellow Apricot Auctions.

The company has set up the first property auction house, which allows people to buy or sell properties entirely online.

Managing director Hasan Mahmood said: "No longer do people have to waste time going to auction venues.

"All they need to do to buy a house is register as bidders and then bid from any internet connection in the world."

Yellow Apricot Auctions said the concept of buying or selling a property without leaving the house was a unique selling point for the business and could offer big savings to sellers by only taking 1 per cent commission.

If you think you could compete against Yellow Apricot Auctions, find out more about the South London Business Awards by visiting southlondonbusinessawards.co.uk or call the awards office on 0870 6093048.

Painting the town green

by MATT WATTS

mwatts@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston's biggest environmental event of the year was announced last week.

This summer's three week Paint the Town Green festival will feature a host of community events to entertain and educate residents and visitors on issues affecting the environment.

Running from May 16 to June 6, the festival is organised by Kingston Council and the Kingston Green Fair with a host of the borough's environmental organisations and green-thinking institutions.

Organisers are inviting green groups to stage events and workshops to promote the work they are doing. Businesses can get involved by showcasing their green credentials and products.

"We also want as many schools as possible to take part, especially on World Environment Day on June 5," said Green Fair organiser

Caped crusaders: It was all smiles at last year's Paint the Town Green festival

Bernadette Valleley.

Events already organised include a screening of Al Gore's acclaimed documentary on climate change, An Inconvenient Truth, and real nappy starter classes.

"It's about getting involved in any way you can," said Ms

Valleley.

One of the main activities will be a solar-powered radio station broadcasting for the entire three weeks, for which people are invited to create their own programmes.

The headline event will be the 21st Kingston Green Fair on May 26, with 250 performers on five stages and an expected 15,000 visitors.

For more information on sponsoring the fair, volunteering or to suggest an idea for a Paint the Town Green event, email info@kingstongreenfair.com

Businesses are given some rubbish advice

Cutting down business waste is being touted as a solution for Kingston businesses worried about the current pressures of economic uncertainty.

Government-funded organisation Enviro-wise suggests by taking a more environmentally efficient approach to managing their resources, local firms could relieve some of this pressure and save themselves money.

The organisation provides a range of free advice to businesses on sustainable resources, from hands-on guidance on optimising design to advice on implementing practical resource efficiency and waste saving measures.

Marcus Herz, Enviro-wise regional manager for London, said: "By banishing wasteful practices now, companies can put themselves in a strong position – one that could potentially mean not having to pass on price rises to suppliers."

Turn heads with a new hairstyle

Stylists at Code Hair salon in Tolworth promise to deliver a professional and friendly.

The team, headed by Peter Georgiou, offer complimentary consultations on both hair styling and colouring. They are more than happy for people to make an appointment for an informal chat about their ideas for their hair before deciding what they want done and booking an appointment. They regularly head out to the local area offering free consultations and head massages to potential new clients.

The standards at Code are very high and the team are currently revamping all their in-salon hair shots, which they created themselves.

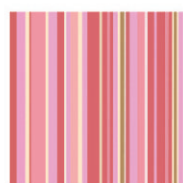

They are arranging a new fashion photo shoot to showcase the very latest in hair styles and contemporary colour.

The salon stocks L'Oreal professional hair products and specialises in selling shampoos which help retain colour, especially for clients who have had a recent colour treatment and are worried about it fading.

At Code, everyone is welcome and they hope their vision will help give you a better understanding of the look you can achieve through hair styling and colour.

During February a 10 per cent discount is being offered on any full service when you take along the advertisement on this page.

The Maypole Pub in Surbiton has recently undergone a transformation thanks to its new owner, Joe McElliott.

Joe took on the challenge himself of completely refurbishing the interior. The pub now has a shiny new bar with pool tables and a darts board plus overnight accommodation with eight new bedrooms upstairs. A new beer garden will also be ready for the warmer weather.

Joe, who used to play rugby, is keen on sport. He said: "We have many team players from London Irish, Harlequins and Kingston rugby clubs coming in to drink and we are very focused on sports coverage which will include the Six Nations and Heineken Cup games."

Traditional pub grub is served at the bar daily and Sunday lunches are popular with families and children alike.

"I couldn't, now I can!"

I used to be a size 26 and the high street was a no-go zone for clothes shopping. I would buy baggy pants and shapeless tops online to save the embarrassment of shops not having my size. I was so miserable I would even refuse invitations to go out as I couldn't bear to come into contact with people.

All that changed when I dropped six dress sizes on the LighterLife weight-loss programme. Now I'm a size 12 I can walk into any shop and buy whatever I want rather than just what fits. It's the best feeling in the world!

Pass the pesto: Carluccio's executive chef Jennifer McLaughlin with reporter Alita Howe

Deadlinepix EL18953

Food chain offers a pizza the action

Fancy serving up a Mediterranean meal? ALITA HOWE cooked up a treat at a food masterclass at Carluccio's

I like to think I am a bit of a dab hand in the kitchen but Italian cookery, bar a mean spaghetti bolognese, has always defeated me.

However, a masterclass in the cuisine from Carluccio's, in Esher, also available at the chain's Kingston store, soon sorted me out.

A different workshop each month has been organised to celebrate the food of one of the Italian regions. Throughout February it is the turn of the Veneto and its speciality, risotto.

Our group of 12 is guided through the dazzling intricacies of risotto with Carluccio's food researcher Valentina Daprile, with everything from the shininess of the grains to the amount of starch in the pan being crucial to its success.

Valentina said: "We are very passionate about what we do at Carluccio's and love to pass on our knowledge to people."

Carluccio's executive chef, Jennifer McLaughlin, is on hand to guide us through the step-by-step cooking process from toasting the rice with oil and rosemary to the mantecatura stage, where parmesan cheese is vigorously whipped in – all of which takes a surprisingly short 18 minutes.

Fellow chef Philippa Bassett, a marketing executive, from Walton, said: "It was great – and with all of the rigorous stirring, you get a good workout as well."

Driver injured in crash

A driver was injured in a crash that closed part of Ewell Road.

Been quite a few of these since they changed the junction. I wonder if there is a link?

Ric Kingston

Given that traffic moves at around 20mph through this junction, how can drivers possibly manage to crash?

I breathed a sigh of relief just now, that's wonderful. Poor Molly. She must be so happy to be at home. It was heart-breaking to see the pictures of her at home knowing she had been snatched away, I am really happy for her owners who obviously adore her! You don't hear happy endings very often in the news...this is great!!

Lib Dem 'achievements' are not worthy of praise

I feel that Councillor Derek Osbourne, the council leader, is being quite modest in quoting the number of achievements he claims have been made for this borough by the Lib Dem council, and credit should be given to him for the following "achievements".

He appears to have completely forgotten to mention the elderly and physically disabled, and the Lib Dems successfully managing to increase their home care charges by 250 per cent, and also managing to cut their eligibility to preventative health care.

The closure of Hobkirk House Day Centre – another success for the Lib Dems.

He is also claiming one of the Lib Dems' achievements is that they have made education in Kingston the envy of the nation.

Sorry, Councillor Osbourne, your claim is invalid.

Since they were founded in the late 1800s, traditionally our three excellent grammar schools – Kingston Grammar, Tiffin Boys School and Tiffin Girls School – on their own have put Kingston on the map, without any help from the Lib Dems.

Another achievement which Coun Osbourne has omitted in his claim, is the Lib Dems' success in managing to fund the Rose Theatre with £11million of ratepayers' money, without having the bother of asking them first.

Coun Osbourne has also forgotten to mention the Lib Dem council has received a two-star grading from the Commission for Social Care Inspectorate for its social care for adult services.

Perhaps this did not get a mention, as in fact the council has been downgraded for the past two years from three stars to two.

Coun Osbourne claims the Lib Dem council is a high-performing authority and has made solid achievements.

Well they can certainly class the aforementioned as their "solid achievements". I let the residents be a judge of that.

'Hideous' stairs spoil impressive Rose

Yesterday I visited the Rose Theatre, Kingston's long-overdue substitute for the excellent Overground Theatre, and was impressed by everything except the hideous fire-escape-type central staircase.

I seem to recall the architect Michael Holden, at a meeting some years ago, saying there would be a double-helix spiral staircase, which would have been beautiful.

But now I am told that Holden was sacked and replaced by a firm hired to complete the Rose as cheaply as possible.

Hence the staircase horror.

Shades of the Sydney Opera House...am I misinformed?

Is parking more important than pupils' recreation?

As a parent of a child at Our Lady Immaculate School, Tolworth, I am concerned about the proposal the school has made this month, to increase parking available to staff at the school by utilising an area of the school playground.

This would result in a reduction of recreational space available to the children and contravene the objectives of the school travel plan.

This goes against Government and Transport for London initiatives to encourage more sustainable methods of transport which the school is promoting for the children and parents.

We are in the process of investigating alternatives to this suggestion but have been told that if, by end of February, suitable alternatives have not been agreed then work will be carried out this summer holidays.

An architect has been engaged, and submitted a drawing which has been made available to parents.

Please could you advise any actions involving the press that may halt this process and give us time to come up with sustainable, workable solutions.

Your prompt attention in this matter is greatly appreciated.

Cycling is best way to travel

On behalf of the Kingston Cycling Campaign (KCC), I would like to suggest to Inez Martins (Feedback, January 30) that cycling from New Malden to Kingston is the ideal answer to her problem.

She says she allows an hour to do the journey by bus.

Even for a slow, old cyclist like me, it would only take 15 to 20 minutes to get from Westbury Road to Kingston. She does not even need to use the main roads.

There are many direct, quiet side roads she can use, and part of her journey would be on traffic-free paths. If she, or anyone else, wants advice on routes, the KCC can help with personalised route planning.

See our website at kingstoncycling.org.uk

There are of course many other benefits – no bus fares, no car parking problems, healthy exercise, plenty of cycle parking near her destination, consistent short journey times, the chance to stop off and shop on the way, etc. She and her daughter could even journey together.

There is even more good news. Kingston Council offers training for non-cyclists, or for those who need more confidence on the road.

Community spirit gone as pub shut

Community Pubs Week is being celebrated at the end of February and I think it is right to celebrate these wonderful community assets.

Pubs are traditionally great social centres available to all, often the base for clubs and societies as well as offering hospitality to passers by and visitors to an area.

I was therefore taken aback to discover my local is closing for the whole of Saturday, February 9, for a wedding reception.

The pub is easily large enough to still provide an area for casual drinkers and this seems the antithesis of the public house concept.

It was particularly puzzling to receive an email inviting me to watch home international rugby there when two key games on the ninth will not be available.

Greek island sketches

John Waller, 67, is a best selling author on Corfu and has his own publishing company, Yiannis Books. He was also a Richmond councillor for 17 years. Mr Waller was in Borders in Kingston for a signing of his new book, Corfu Sketches. ALITA HOWE spoke to him.

Why did you decide to set up Yiannis Books?

When I retired in 2000, my friends gave me a punt. We took it to the Thames and I started writing my first book Three Persons in a Punt.

I sent off 99 manuscripts and 98 publishers said no. One said I should self-publish it, so I did. We're now on book number five and will put out one a year.

How did you get the other authors and artists on board?

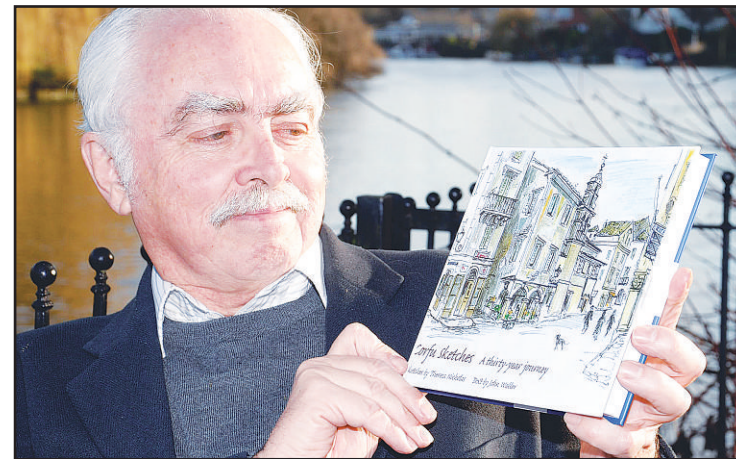

I met Roy Hounsell, author of The Papas and the Englishman, up a mountain in Greece. He asked me to look at his manuscript and it was just fantastic.

Theresa Nicholas arrived in Corfu in 1961 and has been sketching there for 30 years. I met her and saw her work and she came on board as well. She did the sketches for the new book.

What is it about Corfu that you love so much?

The Greek people are very friendly as well as the sun and the sea – the island is very special.

We first went to Corfu in 1966, bought land in 1970 and built a summer house over there in 1971. We really wanted to become part of the village.

Island journey: John Waller with Corfu Sketches

Deadlinepix TW19169

It is so green and people don't realise there is a world heritage site and there are 104 villages to explore.

What is the new book about?

It has 200 sketches organised along five walks through Corfu and through the world heritage site – taking in all of the sites you might not normally see or visit because you're looking at the shops.

For example, there is a walk through the Jewish quarter. I've been going to Corfu since 1966 and I'd never walked through there before. It is a unique book.

Is Corfu an inspiring place?

Absolutely. I spend the spring and the autumn there and it is the place where I can sit under my olive tree and write. I hope that the independent traveller will now go to Corfu and enjoy it as much as I do.

Jackie closedown

VETERAN pirate station Radio Jackie has been shut down after 16 years of continuous broadcasting to south-west London.

The station was finally silenced after the third raid in four days by police and Home Office officials.

London's longest-established and most famous pirate station, which first went on the air in 1969, was raided on Friday morning. Mid-way through the station's morning show, the raiders closed down the door of the station's Westminster Park office.

Using powers bestowed on them by the 1984 Telecommunications Act, the Home Office men confiscated all Jackie's equipment.

The station, which has been broadcasting to south-west London for 16 years, was back on the airwaves with its own equipment the next day.

But in the early hours of Friday morning the raiders returned, this time using a crane to hoist a helicopter into the station's roof.

On Monday the station's staff at the home who had been told to leave were told to leave. The station's equipment was taken away and the station was closed down.

put together a makeshift transmitter and were using a mobile phone to broadcast from neighbouring parades. Jackie's broadcast.

But at approximately 4.45pm officials raided the transmitter site in Abchurch Lane. Jackie's broadcast was cut off for the third time.

And once the station's transmitter Peter Rouse has said they will stay off the air until they are granted a licence.

After 16 years on the airwaves and prepared to go in early, and the way they went about it made it even more determined to carry on," he added.

Monday's broadcasts were designed to keep Jackie's listeners up to date on developments.

"We felt it was important to let people what was happening," Jackie had lived under the threat of closure since last summer when the Home Office gave the power to close down unlicensed stations without warning.

At the moment when Jackie's broadcast was taken to the air, Jackie had been on the air for 16 years. Their names: Angela Rouse, 41.

There may be trouble ahead: Colin King's book documents the struggle to keep Radio Jackie alive in the 1970s and 80s

Radio stars

The British like nothing more than a underdog, with our history chequered with tales of plucky folk who have stood up to 'the man', even in the face of seemingly insurmountable odds.

Heartwarming tales of people triumphing over adversity, bursting with the 'Bulldog spirit', is very much part of our national psyche.

Well in the world of broadcasting few can hold a candle to the legendary Radio Jackie in the underdog stakes.

Police raids, protest marches, heated debates in parliament and even convictions for assault all form a backdrop to the compelling story of south-west London's prominent radio station.

Radio Jackie's colourful, controversial story is springing to life in a new book written by one of its founder members, Colin King.

Entitled Radio Jackie – A Very English Struggle, it documents the station from its turbulent times on the run in the 1970s right up until its official rebirth in 2003.

King, who will host a launch event for the book at Border's in Kingston tonight (Thursday), is quick to explain why he decided to undertake the project.

King said: "The reason I wrote the book is because I felt if I did not write it nobody else would and I do not want the story to disappear."

"It is one hell of a story – full of twists and turns."

"The tale of Radio Jackie is one of amazing highs and abject lows. It has all the ingredients of a great story."

Radio Jackie has built a steady stream of followers from its fledgling days broadcasting from local fields in 1969 up to its more

Radio Jackie Timeline

- March 1969
Begins broadcasting as pirate station, based in Sutton offering a 30-minute Sunday broadcast.
- February 1971
Now broadcasting week-ends, offers an FM service on Saturday evenings.
- 1983
Becomes a 24-hour station with studio in Worcester Park
- February 4, 1985
Station closed down following police raid despite presence of a thousand protesters.
- 1996
Applied for official broadcasting licence but lost out to Thames FM.
- October 19, 2003
After Thames FM's demise, Radio Jackie returns as an officially-licensed station, broadcasting from Tolworth.

luxurious surroundings in Tolworth Broadway today.

But King feels the book will prove an entertaining read even to those who may never have tuned in.

He added: "The difference with Radio Jackie is that it is a 'real' station."

"We always billed ourselves as a local station for local people and wanted to give people an alternative."

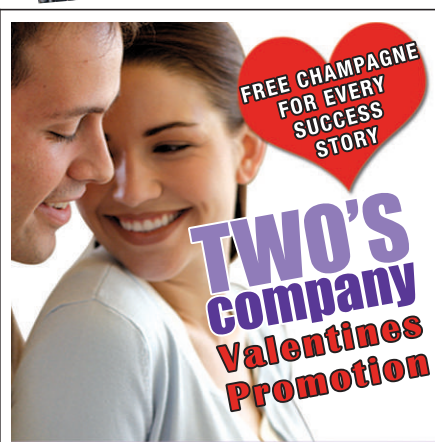

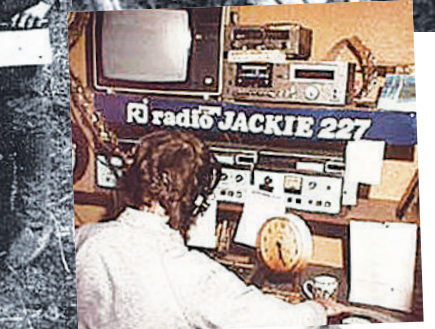

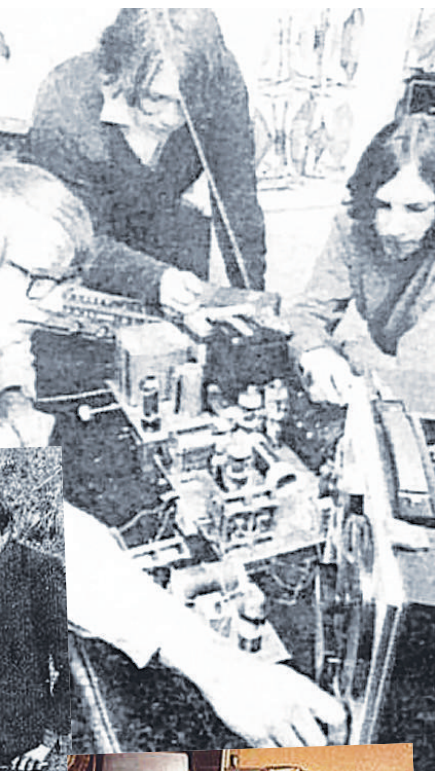

"When the police came to close the station down in 1985 there were a thousand people outside protesting, which is phenomenal."

"People were very passionate about the station then and there are still those who are passionate about the station now."

"There is no doubting Radio Jackie is a cult station and has picked up a cult following."

"But this book is very much a 'David and Goliath' tale with a quintessential English vibe that will appeal to all."

Entertaining guests: Warren Mitchel as Mr Green

Kingston's Rose Theatre continues its thought-provoking range of shows with acclaimed drama Visiting Mr Green, which gets a six-night stint from February 11-16.

Coming hot on the heels of Sir Peter Hall's successful run of Uncle Vanya, it provides another showcase for the fledgling theatre as it seeks to establish a reputation as south west London's premiere venue.

Visiting Mr Green, which features legendary star of stage and screen Warren Mitchell, alongside Gideon Turner, is the work of award-winning New York playwright Jeff Baron.

It charts the burgeoning relationship between Mr Green, an 86-year-old widower, and young corporate executive Ross

What begins as a comedy with two opposites sparking off each other rapidly turns into serious drama, as secrets are revealed, character flaws rise to the surface and tensions heighten.

Mitchell, best known for his portrayal of controversial Alf Garnett in Till Mitchell has made prominent appearances in Harold Pinter and Arthur Miller plays, including an Olivier Award-winning turn in Miller's The Price.

Better Healthcare for Londoners a capital idea

It's the circle of life

Flick through any city tourist guide and it's highly unlikely that roundabouts will feature on a 'must-see' list of attractions. Cumbersome, mundane structures, their sole purpose often seems to be to aggravate the driver. Kingston are attempting to shake things up though, by launching a roundabout art project as part of its Kingston+20 scheme. The college roundabout is first up, and Kingston residents are being encouraged to help choose the winning design.

ART: Roundabout Gallery, Market House

Simon Fitzjohn

A public display of the students' entries is being held at the Market House next week. Colin Bloxham, principal art officer for the council, said of the project: "With Kingston+20 we are looking at imaginative ideas for the town centre."

"The college roundabout is a key focal point, as an entry to the town centre. "We looked at professional artist's proposals, but they were too prohibitive cost-wise, so we threw it open to art students. "They have come up with some radical, imaginative ideas."

The council are eager to gauge public opinion and hope residents will flock to the Market House to make their feelings known. Roundabout Gallery, Market House, Kingston, Mon 11 Feb 12-5, Tues 12 Feb 9-5.

Frantic dash for success

A Kingston band look set to hit the big time after a website run by music fans has demanded the release of their debut single.

The Frantic impressed subscribers to the music website bandrepublic.com, the world's first online record label, where board room decisions are made by 3,000 members of the general public.

The five-piece secured a deal with Band Republic, where donations from fans paid for the release of their debut single Killing Time as a download on January 28.

Luke Smith, head of music at Band Republic, said: "New bands need a lot of exposure before they can get a record deal these days.

"There has been a change in the industry, as people have seen with EMI cutting jobs, and internet success is crucial to building up a following.

"Band Republic is a stepping stone towards getting them a bigger deal. It gives bands the exposure they need to open them up to the record labels."

The band, who have been together since April 2007, fought off competition from four other UK groups to win the chance to release a track.

Vocalist Tom Beaufort-Lloyd says: "It's a great chance to get the single out and it broadens the people who get to hear our music.

"We are really excited about the release, we're persuading everyone we can think of to

MUSIC: The Frantic, Fighting Cocks

download it."

Tom met band members Chris Howard, Jack Godfrey and Dave Catmur at Hinchley Wood school, and recruited bassist Ben when they attended Exeter University together.

The band have played regularly at local venue the Fighting Cocks and are looking to book a home gig at Pier One on the waterfront in February to celebrate their debut release.

Tom is enthusiastic about performing in his home town.

He says: "Kingston has an amazing music scene, and I think that's finally getting recognised. New bands are coming up all the time, and it's great to be a part of it all."

The young performers have all taken a year out after university to make their dreams happen, and are working part-time in admin and bar work to support themselves.

Previously known as Clap Disco, they changed their name after a string of reviews noted their "frantic" presence on stage.

They have already received coverage in the Independent and Music Week, and

The artists formerly known as Clap Disco: The Frantic who play Fighting Cocks supported top indie bands We Start Fires and Scouting For Girls.

The band now hopes the download release will see them achieving the same success as the 2006 Band Republic winners The Longsands, who have signed with a Manchester record label and released a second single.

As the band says on their MySpace profile: "Future plans involve getting famous".

Luke is confident that the band can become a big hit: "I hope that they make the top 20. They will make a good go of it, and when a band works so hard it's really exciting to see where it will take them.

"They've created a huge buzz among my friends. I have to be impartial, but personally I really love this band."

Two pennies' worth

MUSIC: This Could Be Anywhere, Penny School Gallery

Simon Fitzjohn

Kingston College's Penny School Gallery will provide a different spin on modern art this month when it showcases the work of two up-and-coming artists.

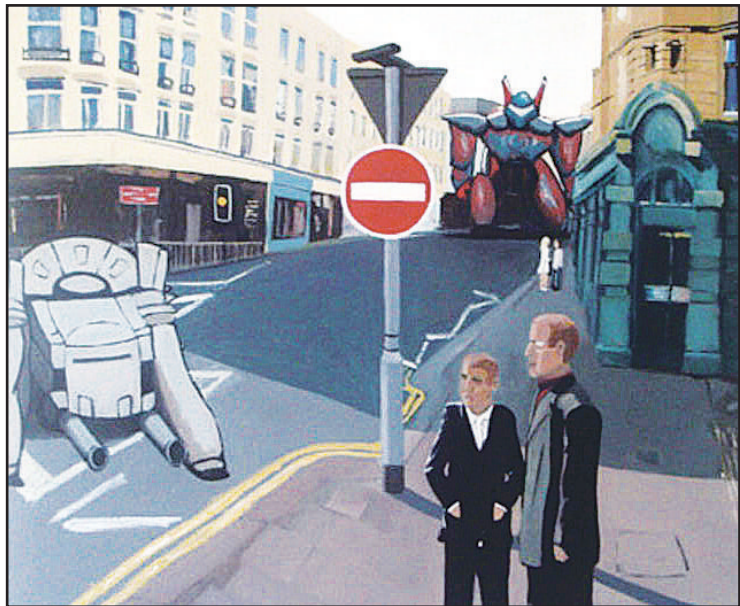

Darren Fox and Philippa Hayward, both graduates of Southampton's Solent University, will offer a selection of their work under the banner This Could Be Anywhere.

Both use modern life and landscapes as a backdrop to evocative imagery. And gallery director Rosemary Williams is quick to reveal why she has snapped up the pair for display: "First of all I absolutely love their work.

"It hits a contemporary note and that is difficult to find. They are two quite different artists but both are working with today's landscapes.

"There is also an awful lot of imagination in their work, and they relate very well together."

Darren, who now resides in Brighton, focuses on the environment and the objects within it, and is eager to turn clichéd imagery on its head.

No entry: Robots in the Street by Darren Fox

Philippa, who is now taking a Masters in Art Management at Winchester University, uses run-down locations to present a different take on modern life.

Williams reveals her thoughts on the pair's unusual styles: "Darren has a very interesting vision. His piece with robots on the streets – I hadn't seen anything like that before.

"Philippa makes something out of nothing. She makes you think about what you are looking at."

The gallery has a reputation as a launchpad for young artist's careers, and Williams hopes this is the start of big things for the pair.

Williams adds: "By displaying work we give young artists confidence, and seeing them become successful is very exciting for us."

Give someone entering health and social care a hand. It could be a whole new way of caring.

Have you ever thought how satisfying it might be to pass on your skills to someone entering health and social care? Training as a tutor could be a new, equally rewarding way to care for people – and ensure there's a new generation of professionals who really know what they're doing.

You could have a lot to gain by becoming a tutor – and your training would be as flexible as possible. Because your expertise is in demand, you can choose whether to get involved full time or even just a couple of hours a week. So, if you have NVQ level 3 or an equivalent qualification in your field, we'd really like to hear from you.

Ab Fab

This Fabia has more room to move, but still retains its supermini status

As significant new cars go, Skoda's Fabia supermini is right up there. The original model, after all, turned the Czech company around, selling more than 1.5 million units, with over 112,000 finding their way to these shores. Its successor has important shoes to fill, and plenty of much tougher opposition too, writes Andy Enright.

Back in 2000 when the original version arrived, all it had to be was well built and bigger than anything else in the supermini sector to guarantee success. The fact that it was styled by the guy responsible for Bentley's Continental GT was the icing on the cake and cemented the platform for its massive success.

Rivals have upped their game considerably in recent years however, and the result is that Skoda thought long and hard about what kind of car it needed this MK2 model to be.

Launched at the 2007 Geneva Motor

Show with an estate version out at the beginning of this year, early impressions of the new generation model suggest that the thinking time has been well spent.

While the old Fabia was never really focused on keen drivers (even the vRS model was a rather modest diesel) it remained a very civilised steer. The latest model carries over some of the engines and improves some of the others. With four petrol units and three diesels available, there's no shortage of choice. The petrol range kicks off with the three-cylinder 1.2-litre HTP engine, developing 60bhp. The next step up is the 70bhp 1.2HTP 12v, followed by the 85bhp 1.4 16v. A 1.6-litre 16v engine is also offered with a six-speed Tiptronic automatic gearbox option.

The trio of diesel engines starts with two 1.4-litre TDI units in either 70 or 80bhp guises with a 1.9-litre TDI that's good for 105bhp at the top of the range. No news yet on whether the excellent 2.0-litre diesel will make an appearance. Prices start at £7,990 and there are 1, 2, 3 and Sport trim levels.

It's a notably bigger car now, the subsequent growth of the family hatch in size giving this Fabia a bit more room to let its belt out and remain a fully fledged supermini. Skoda claim more rear knee and headroom than any rival, helped by the fact that the Fabia is 22mm longer and 47mm taller than the model it replaces. Boot capacity stands at an impressive 300 litres with the seats in place or a massive 1,163 litres when they're folded.

The unimpeachable build quality you can take for granted. Skoda had the element of surprise on their side with the old Fabia. Nobody really saw it coming. This time round, the Fabia is expected to be excellent.

KIA MOTORS
The Power to Surprise™

Who do you think you are, Stirling Moss?!

Motor racing legend Sir Stirling Moss officially opened Kia's newest dealership Lovekyn at its special launch event.

Sir Stirling performed the official ceremony at the business' event which was attended by around 100 customers and guests including the Korean manufacturer's managing director Paul Philpott on Saturday 26th January.

Cutting the ribbon and signing autographs, Sir Stirling, who still races historic cars at around eight meetings a year, said: "These are absolutely fantastic cars at incredibly competitive prices. It is a pleasure to open the business and I wish the team every success."

Lovekyn Kia at Ruxley Lane, Ewell, opened for business on 1st January 2008 under the ownership of dealer principal Andrew Shelly and director Barry Green.

Lovekyn - the right dealer to move Kia forward

Lovekyn is a shining example of Kia's future, according to Paul Philpott, managing director of Kia Motors (UK) Ltd, talking at the dealer's official opening event.

Paul Philpott said, "Kia is changing: in 18 months we have launched eight new cars and we need dealers who reflect our new brand positioning. Lovekyn is exactly the kind of partner with whom we see our future. In Andrew Shelly we have a young, professional and ambitious dealer principal, with a passion to make this partnership a success and drive his enthusiastic team forward. His commitment to ensuring customers receive the highest level of service before and after they have driven their Kia off the forecourt are essential to helping us further develop the brand."

Lovekyn was also the first in the Kia dealer network to launch the new Pro_cee'd ahead of its on sale date of 1st February 2008.

The Power to Surprise™

Visit us at Lovekyn Kia anytime up to 31st March 2008 to enter our prize draw for your chance to win a Pro_ceed for six months. Come and see us in our showroom and fill in the form to enter our competition to win a test drive of the newly launched Pro_ceed for six months*.

Terms and Conditions

To enter the competition, you must visit Lovekyn Kia and fill out a competition entry form and post it in the competition entry box in the dealership from now until 31st March 2008 during opening hours. The winner will be required to collect the car from Lovekyn Kia on the first available date following the vehicle's delivery. The six-calendar month 'test drive' will start from the date Lovekyn make the vehicle ready for collection and ends on the date six calendar months after delivery when the vehicle must be returned to Lovekyn. The vehicle must be returned in reasonable condition. The winner will be responsible for the cost of any damage to the vehicle in the six-month period when the vehicle is their responsibility. Insurance will be provided for the winner only who must satisfy Lovekyn Kia's insurance company's criteria including being aged between 21 and 70 years, and produce a valid UK driving licence with no more than three penalty points. Provision of a Kia pro_ceed is strictly subject to availability and Lovekyn Kia reserves the right to substitute an alternative model if necessary. Lovekyn Kia will undertake all servicing requirements of the vehicle which must be carried out at Lovekyn Kia but it is the winner's responsibility to ensure that the manufacturer service and maintenance schedule is adhered to, failure to do so will result in the instant termination of the prize. When driving a car from Lovekyn Kia, drivers must adhere to the legal requirements of the road at all times. Any breach of such requirements is at the driver's own risk and for their own account. This prize is non transferable and has no equivalent cash value. The winner will be selected at random by Lovekyn Kia on 1st April 2008 and contacted by telephone. The winner may be required to take part in or cooperate in publicity. The judge's decision is final. Test drive is restricted to 5,000 miles or six months whichever comes first. Additional mileage charge 40p per mile. Open to all UK residents, excluding employees and the families of Kia Motors (UK) Ltd, their agents, or anyone professionally connected with the promotion. Each vehicle remains the property of Barry Shelley Ltd trading as Lovekyn, and will be returned to the dealer on a pre-arranged date. The six-month test drive limits the use of the car to social, domestic and pleasure purposes, including commuting. In order to take part in the six-month long test drive, all drivers will be required to sign a document confirming acceptance of specified terms and conditions.

At home: Tom Onslow-Cole gets a feel for the Vectra

Tom ready for Vauxhall rush

New Malden's British touring car ace Tom Onslow-Cole gets his first taste of Vauxhall power when he takes the wheel of his Vectra in the first test of the new season this week.

The 20-year-old, who recently signed with current champions VX Racing team to contest the 2008 HiQ MSA British Touring Car Championship, joins new team-mates Fabrizio Giovanardi and Matt Neal in Southern Spain ahead of the season, which kicks off next month.

Casuals crisis

Corinthian Casuals assistant manager Keith Holloway has revealed a crisis of confidence has swept his struggling side.

Casuals slumped to a dismal 2-0 home defeat to Ashford Town on Saturday to leave them hovering dangerously above the drop zone.

Having seen the side go 10 games without a win, including a run of five successive defeats, Holloway admitted he was struggling to provide answers.

He said: "It is the same group of players who were doing so well earlier in the season.

"There is a real lack of confidence at the moment. The boys seem to be going on to the pitch dreading what could happen."

Dowson loses patience

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingstonian boss Alan Dowson is set to wield the axe this week to halt a slide down the table that threatens his side's promotion hopes.

Ks have collected just seven points from their past nine Ryman League Division One South games, including Saturday's 2-2 draw with basement club Molesey.

A Bobby Traynor brace was not enough to give Dowson's men maximum points against their relegation-threatened rivals.

And the Kingsmeadow chief has decided enough is enough with a new strike force and reinforcements at the back, topping his shopping list.

"I have been threatening them with changes, I have tried putting an arm around a couple of them and nothing seems to be working," he said.

"I can accept getting beaten, but if we are not even prepared to work hard for it then it is even harder to take.

"I have got to do something. I have been loyal to a lot of them and I will not feel guilty about letting anyone go, because they can't say they have not been given a chance.

"Some players have responded recently, but while there is the talent in the squad there doesn't seem to be the guts. Winning doesn't just happen.

"The run we are in is relegation form at the moment.

"They are my signings, they are my team and it is time to get my finger out and sort this out."

Dowson is expecting to bring three players in and let three go before the weekend's visit of play-off rivals Dulwich Hamlet.

Ks, who also face high-flying Met Police and Walton & Hersham in the next four weeks, are level on points with Saturday's fifth-placed opponents.

And Dowson admits it could be a pivotal clash for his struggling side.

"We missed an opportunity to go into this game with a win under our belts, but then again we have been missing opportunities like that all season," he added.

"We have got some big matches coming up in the next couple of weeks and they will go a long way to deciding where we finish."

SPORTSbrief

RUGBY UNION: Kingston's dream of a place in the EDF Junior Vase final at Twickenham came to an end in the Fens on Saturday, after being beaten 18-15 by Wisbech RFC. Peter Codd's try followed up Nathan Brown's first-half touchdown to level the scores at 15-15 but, with 10 minutes left, the visitors gave away a penalty, which proved the decisive score. Kingston will look to bounce back in Surrey League One at home to Croydon this weekend.

Match report: yourlocalguardian.co.uk

SHOOTING: Surbiton Postal A Team have set a British record score of 590 out of a possible 600, adding one point to the previous best set in 1997-98 by Cambridge 177. They did it in round four of the National Smallbore Rifle Association RWS 10m Air Rifle Leagues. Team members were Fanah Potts (198), Melanie Flowers (197) and Ian Potts (195). At the Pzen Grand Prix in the Czech Republic, Flowers finished eighth, with fellow British junior team member Sheree Cox 14th.

HOCKEY: Kingston Grammar School's U18 girls have won the National Indoor Hockey Championships for the first time, at only their second attempt. They beat Taunton School 6-4 in the final at Birmingham. It was particularly sweet as Taunton had beaten Kingston 5-3 in their opening match of the weekend. The school's U16 boys were beaten in the semi-finals of their national indoor tournament over the same weekend.

HOCKEY: Surbiton's bid to escape relegation was given a boost when ninth-placed Hampstead & Westminster were deducted two points for fielding an ineligible player in a game before Christmas. The Long Ditton-based club are now 10 points clear of the drop zone.
